Five States Pass Laws In Old Depression Style; No Emergency

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Rising unemployment and swelling relief rolls have led five states to pass depression-style relief laws and at least seven cities to revive "work relief" projects.

But an Associated Press survey today suggested no national emergency. It found most states certain they could handle their relief load in stride.

It indicated joblessness has dwindled or stabilized in at least ten states in recent weeks or months. It showed that, almost everywhere, unemployment insurance has been a "cushion" to keep most laidoff workers off "poor relief" until they found new jobs.

An inside-government memorandum made available to A. P. supports these findings. It says country-wide statistics "do not reflect the emergence of any new crisis."

President Truman has proposed federal grants for "home relief" to match state aid to payless families, on the same basis as the federal funds now used for the blind, the aged, and dependent children. Officials say it would cost $230,000,000 a year, and more in bad times.

No Crisis, Truman Says
Truman said yesterday he does not consider the rise in unemployment and the dip in business a crisis, although total unemployment rose in May to 3,289,000.

Neither does the chairman of his council of economic advisers, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, but Nourse declared in a speech that a "continued downswing" in business is possible.

The Associated Press survey covered 38 states from which data were available quickly. In almost all of them, officials reported rises in the last year in both the relief burden and the number of people drawing unemployment pay.

Travelers Hurt In Traffic Mishap

Two East Lansing, Mich., youths, enroute to a summer camp, were slightly injured in an auto accident at the intersection of S. Union ave. and Elm st., at 3:45 p. m. Thursday, police reported.

The cars involved were driven by Herbert Marshall of East Lansing and Henry H. Straub of R. D. 2, Salem. Marshall told police he was behind the Straub car, when it swung left over the center of the road and then turned right into Elm st.

Marshall took to the right ditch to avoid a collision. He and a passenger, William Van Dyke of East Lansing, were treated for minor injuries at the Central Clinic.

His car was damaged. Cars operated by Harry Pelton of 611 N. Lincoln ave. and Elsie Walters of R. D. 4, Salem, collided at the corner of Penn and Pershing at 10:20 a. m. Thursday. Police said the Walters car pulled from Penn st. into the path of Pelton's on E. Pershing. The front of the Pelton car and the left front fender of the Walters vehicle were damaged.

Officials Probe Suspicious Circumstances

The apparent accidental death of Mrs. Albert Gfeller of R. D. 1, Beloit, who was drowned Thursday morning in a watering trough at her farm home, was under investigation today, following an autopsy report.

Mahoning County Prosecutor William A. Ambrose today began a probe into the 24-year-old woman's death. The investigation was recommended by Columbiana County Coroner Ernest Sturgis, who reported that the autopsy report is "suspicious".

Mrs. Gfeller was found at 8:30 a. m. Thursday facedown in the barn watering trough by her husband, who said he was returning from feeding cattle nearby. She was rushed to Salem City hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

The autopsy, Sturgis said, disclosed a scalp puncture, shoulder bruises, pressure marks on the chest and traces of mud in her stomach, lungs and throat.

Dr. A. P. Falkenstein, Central Clinic pathologist who conducted the autopsy yesterday afternoon, said death was due to "asphyxiation by drowning."

Ambrose immediately followed the coroner's recommendation and began a probe.

"Although we have not yet received Sturgis' written report, everything I have learned so far definitely indicates the woman was murdered," Ambrose told The News today.

"We are moving slowly until all the autopsy reports are received," he said.

Coroner Sturgis made a report on the case because although the woman lived in Mahoning county, she was pronounced dead in Columbiana county. Any further investigation was left to Mahoning officials.

Meanwhile the burial of Mrs. Gfeller will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Stark Memorial here, in charge of Rev. E. K. Bares. Interment will be in Bunker Hill cemetery.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Albert Ernest and Richard Dale; four sisters, and a brother.

Ran to Neighbor's Home
Mrs. Alfred Martig, who lives across the road from the farm, said she heard Gfeller at the door of her home about 8:30 a. m. He had started to run back to his house by the time she got to the door. When she called to him he said that his wife had been hurt in the water trough in the barn.

Mrs. Martig and Gfeller ran back to his house and into the kitchen where Mrs. Gfeller was stretched out on the floor. When Mrs. Martig exclaimed that she thought his wife was dead, he wouldn't believe this and immediately started artificial respiration. Mrs. Martig related today.

Daryl Richenberger, Berlin Center milk truck driver, stopped in front of the home and assisted in attempts to revive Mrs. Gfeller.

Dr. Weidemier, of Berlin Center, who had been summoned, arrived shortly before 9 a. m. and immediately called the ambulance.

Mrs. Martig said Gfeller told her he was going to the watering trough to get water for the calves.

He returned to the barn and found her in the water trough, head first and her feet extending over the edge.

The concrete water trough is in one corner of the section of the barn which contains the calves. It extends about a foot above floor level and is about two feet wide and five feet long. It is deep enough to keep the farmer's milk cans surrounded by water up to handle level.

The trough it fed by water from a spring at the top of the hill a few hundred yards away. The water runs beside the road and has been piped into the barn. Silt and mud, collected while running to the farm barn from the spring, is in the bottom of the trough.

The corner of the barn is dimly lighted and is slippery from the overflow.

WITNESS TELLS HOW HE GAVE REDS PAPERS

Surprise Witness, Former State Department Man, Ends Government Case

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—A "surprise" witness was called in the Alger Hiss perjury trial today to follow Henry Julian Wadleigh, who admitted yesterday he stole U.S. secrets for Russia.

The new witness was expected to wind up the government's case. "You will be surprised at this witness," Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy told newsmen. "I was surprised myself when I heard about it."

Wadleigh, one-time associate of Hiss in the State department, admitted on the stand yesterday his Communist sympathies led him to turn over confidential documents for relay to Russian agents.

"I began to take out the documents and give them to unauthorized persons as soon as I joined the State department in March, 1936," Wadleigh testified in a cultured, clipped voice.

The Oxford-educated economist, along with Hiss and three others, has been named by Whitaker Chambers as "sources" of information that Chambers said he relayed to prewar Soviet spies.

Hiss, former high political adviser in the State department, was charged with perjury when he denied Chambers' charges before a grand jury.

Wadleigh, who had kept silent since Chambers first accused him before a congressional committee nearly a year ago, testified for the prosecution that he "collaborated with the Communists" but was not a party member.

As an official in the trade agreements section of the State department, Wadleigh said, he provided documents to both Chambers and to a David Carpenter.

"Wadleigh said his willingness to aid the Communists ended at the signing of the Russian-German non-aggression pact in 1939. "I had very serious misgivings," he said, "and I was no longer willing to take the risks and face the other factors involved."

"After all, there was something quite distasteful about the procedure involved in this work, and I was not prepared to incur these things after the Nazi-Soviet pact."

CHARGE TWO MEN IN WOOSTER JOB
WOOSTER, June 17—Pickup orders were circulated throughout the country today for two men charged with staging a $2,731 robbery at the North Fairfield bank last Monday.

Federal warrants drawn up by the FBI named James Perry, 55, and Paul Boyes, 17, both of Rittman, O., in the Huron county holdup.

Police Chief Charles Heffelman of Rittman said the warrants were filed after FBI agents questioned a woman and her son in Rittman. The two later were released.

The patrol reported $640 had been seized at the home of the Rittman women and a man questioned. It was not determined definitely, however, the money was part of the $2,731 stolen.

One of the women questioned, Lt. D. W. Unkel said, reported she had "contacted" Perry Wednesday.

Two Cars Collide
A car driven by Robert C. Smith, 19, of Ravenna collided with the rear of another operated by William H. Clendenning, 20, of East Liverpool on Route 30, one and a half miles southeast of Lisbon, at 10:25 a. m. Thursday.

No one was injured, but both cars were damaged, the state highway patrol reported.

Accept Challenge, Nurses Class Told At Graduation

"Never lose sight of the challenge and the opportunity which comes from the unexplored regions of human relations and spiritual values. Go forward, unafraid, adventuring and pioneering for the discovery of newer, greater, more beautiful truths, upon which to build a nobler America and a more righteous world."

This was the admonition given by Dr. George P. Michaelides of Cleveland to the six young women who graduated from Salem City hospital School of Nursing at the annual commencement exercises Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. Michaelides used for the theme of his forceful address, "More Beyond."

"The world of spiritual and moral values is largely unexplored," according to Dr. Michaelides, president of Schaeffer college. "We have yet to learn what it means to love God and man; to do justly and love mercy; to love friends and enemies; to seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and to understand the personal and social implication of 'Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love'."

"There is 'more beyond' in the realm of science as daily experiences prove. There is infinitely more to be discovered in the realm of human relations and human values. This field is literally unexplored. Nevertheless some of our leaders are trying to convince us that there is nothing beyond in the relations between parents and children, teachers and pupils, capital and labor, one race and another and one nation and another," he commented.

The college president explained that because of this attitude we had World wars I and II and are now talking about World war III.

Three Awards Made
For the first time in the history of the school, scholarship awards were made. They were from three of Salem's civic clubs—the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary which are manifesting an interest in the field of nursing.

The academic award of the Kiwanis club was presented to Miss Velma Ruth O'Neil, only Salem girl in the class. Lee Vincent, representative of the club, made the presentation.

The Lions surgical nurse award, was made by Donald Cannon, to June Gaydos of Lisbon. Harold Benson, president, presented the Rotary personality award to Dorothy May Strohecker of Mahoningtown, Pa.

Other members of the class were Elaine M. Hadley, Deerfield; Louise Mackey of East Liverpool and Jane Ann Sheehan of Salineville.

Atty's South Metzger, secretary, board of trustees, who gave the welcome, announced the program.

After the invocation by Rev. H. L. Ogden, pastor of the Presbyterian church, the graduates sang "Turn to ACCEPT Page 6

Christian Science Church Wins Healing Charge Fight

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, June 17—(AP)—Christian Science practitioners today gained the threshold of state recognition as healers through prayer.

Ohio senators passed a house-approved bill to allow them to charge fees for their services. If Gov. Frank J. Lausche signs the measure, they can start 90 days later.

The church's practitioners now can accept only voluntary contributions for ministrations. For more than 30 years they have tried to win exemption from the State's Medical License act. The senate gave in Thursday by a vote of 22-8. The house voted its approval 75-50 last April 12.

Two attempts to change the bill yesterday failed on the senate floor.

Sen. Edwin F. Sawicki (D-Cuyahoga) wanted practitioners to charge only Christian Science church members. They would continue eligible for gifts from other accepting their services. The amendment lost 18 no to 11 yes.

Asks General Bill
Permission for any religious group member in good standing to charge for "ministering to human ills through prayers or spiritual means" was proposed by Sen. Carl D. Sheppard (R-Summit). It was turned down 18 no to 12 yes.

"Deal with this program in a general way so you don't offend any religious group," Sheppard asked senators. He said few states with similar laws singled out the Christian Science church.

Senators without exception commended the way church members campaigned for their cause through the years.

"If all our citizens were like them, we would have no trouble in the State of Ohio or in the world," said Sen. D. A. Liggitt (R-Logan).

"These people are real ladies and gentlemen," declared Sen. Arthur Blake (D-Belmont). By contrast, "I've been subjected to some bad treatment by organized groups," he added.

Rule Doctor In Murder Is Insane
LA GRANGE, Tex., June 17—(AP)—Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, Ohio-born convicted slayer, was judged insane here yesterday by a Fayette county jury.

The instructed verdict from District Judge J. R. Fuchs prevented the state from executing Ross for the slaying of Mrs. Gertrude York, wife of a San Antonio investment banker.

A state law commits any defendant found insane to a mental institution and does not allow the death penalty.

Only two witnesses testified before the trial came to an abrupt ending. The witnesses, both physicians, testified Ross now is permanently insane.

The native of Delroy, Carroll county, Ohio, also was charged with the slaying of Mrs. York's husband and two other members of the family.

Ross ambushed the family May 25, 1947 on a lonely road near New Brunfels while they were driving to church. Only one member of the family, Ann, then 13, escaped death. She was wounded.

Ross was convicted Oct. 23, 1947 of the slaying of Mrs. York. He was charged but not tried in the other deaths.

Ross' defense counsel claimed the physician was insane at the time of the slayings. He said Ross shot the four persons because of the loss of $150,000, his life savings. The money had been entrusted to York for investment.

Between Heated Sessions

It's hot and humid in Washington. Legislators are working under handicaps made no easier by high-pressure lobbying tactics.

Between heated sessions, it might be a good idea for some of them to think earnestly about the fundamental purpose of their job. They were sent to congress to put into effect the will of the citizens they represent.

It's not always easy to determine what that will is. That's why there are pressure blocs—to distort legislative impressions and to blur distinctions between right and wrong.

On major issues the distinctions are too sharp to be blurred. They are too sharp to be blurred on the major issue of whether or not labor unions in the United States should be relieved of the same responsibilities which are accepted by other private organizations.

It is clearly the will of a preponderant majority that labor unions should bear these responsibilities. All the fiddling and fuming of a thousand apologists and twice that many politicians can't change that. If congress were to pass, by some tragic miscarriage of public justice, a labor-management law which failed to acknowledge that irresponsible unionism is intolerable, the law would have to be repealed at the earliest opportunity. Nothing would have been settled.

Perhaps it's too much to hope that congressmen may think about this. But it isn't too much to expect that they should think about it. Unless they do, they have flunked their obligation to put into law the will of the people, as against the will of clamorous minorities.

Everybody Pays

When the presidential budget advisers gazed into their adding machines last January, they saw a $600,000 deficit looming over the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Now that June 30 is almost here, the deficit threatens to be at least twice that large. The reason: Taxpayers can't keep up with the government's rate of spending.

Forget the billion-dollar figures. Forget the argument over whether to increase taxes or merely keep taxes at their high peace-time level.

Concentrate on this simple, single fact: That the government of the United States, using every device that imaginative tax collectors can think of, can't pay its own way. It has not paid its own way, except in 1947 and 1948, since the first year of the turbulent thirties. And it avoided deficits in 1947 and 1948 only by levying wartime tax rates on a peacetime nation.

Everybody pays for the government's inability to live within its income. And posterity will pay for the deficit. Economists and theorists have dreamed up special names for the practices that have run up history's largest debt and history's most enormous taxes, but there was a name for it long before they got busy—squandering.

Safe From Injunction

In their panting haste to cripple the country and make it powerless to act in behalf of the general welfare against a labor union, some congressmen want to outlaw injunctions under any and all circumstances.

They are the same congressmen who want to regulate everything else in the United States—a significant point of reasoning which had better be left for historians to figure out.

Meanwhile, it provides enough perplexity to wonder what these congressmen are driving at with their strategy of making it impossible for the government to deal with a national emergency through the power of injunction.

They do not demand that any other class of private organization should be immune to injunctions. On the contrary, they favor giving the government the power of outright seizure of business and industry in the event of a national emergency—and that may be the clue to what the anti-injunction congressmen are driving at.

They are thinking ahead to a time when it might be possible for government to seize business and industry on a wholesale basis, in the same name of a national emergency—with the enthusiastic support of union leaders assured in advance that the government would be powerless to deal with them on even terms.

One-Man Pressure Bloc

Paul Hoffman, ECA administrator, has stirred up a hornet's nest by hinting at possible resignation if congress cuts ECA funds.

It has been forgotten now, but Gen. Marshall stirred up a hornet's nest early in January, 1948, when he dropped the same kind of a hint in testimony before a congressional committee. What was true then is true now.

Part of Mr. Hoffman's job as ECA administrator is to make the best possible case for his point of view. But part of his job as a functionary of the United States government is to adjust his point of view to other points of view.

It is likely that in the next several years many requests for federal funds will have to be revised downward. That does not necessarily mean that the projects for which the money is requested will have to be revised downward. As the price level declines, substantial savings will be made possible. Unless congress takes advantage of this possibility, it will be guilty of authorizing net increases in the spending power of the agencies requesting appropriations.

Perhaps Mr. Hoffman could face the situation with better grace if congress looked at all federal spending as critically as it seems inclined to look at European aid. He knows that there is no pressure bloc for his project, which may explain why he, like Gen. Marshall in 1948, has applied personal pressure. After all, it worked for Gen. Marshall.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

IT might be as well to make it a holiday, since workaday affairs are under an adverse sign, with several indications of disruption, disappointment and strife. Little cares can become big ones if attempts be made to batter down obstacles.

Later in evening such situation abates and may perhaps about-face to pleasant relations and advantages in business as well as private relations.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may start off the year with frustrations and shattered plans, hopes and desires, with disruptions, alienations and disagreeable crises. Especially would superiors, employers or higher-ups in any form be disposed to resent untoward behavior. Later on such regrettable contacts and attitudes may be composed and happier relations resumed. Protect such bettered situation by discretion and silence. Placate enemies.

A child born on this day may be irascible, arbitrary and fuss over trivialities to its detriment.

Boys' State On At Ohio Wesleyan

DELAWARE, June 17—(UP)—Nearly 900 teen-aged boys from all parts of Ohio will converge on the Ohio Wesleyan university campus tomorrow for the start of the 13th annual ten-day Buckeye Boys' State.

Sponsored by the Ohio American Legion, Boys' State is held annually to acquaint future citizens with the methods and mechanics of democratic government.

The delegates, all juniors in high school, are sponsored by local Legion posts and clubs, schools, newspapers, lodges, labor unions, industries and civic groups.

The number of delegates this year was limited to 896 because of lack of more sleeping facilities in university dormitories.

The "state," made up of 18 "cities," will be supervised by 29 Legionnaires and 35 counselors, chosen from students at Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan universities.

The boys, however, run the "state" and "city" governments, elect their chief executives and perform other duties required of citizens.

Among state, city and county officials who will come here to aid the youngsters in setting up their offices and carrying out the various duties are Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the state highway patrol and former Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert.

Potato Chip Process Is Speeded At Leetonia

LEETONIA—The new potato-chip box wrapper, recently installed at the Berg Bretzel plant, is turning out almost 5,000 dozen boxes of chips per shift, according to Ralph Kennedy, general manager.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You arrive late at a large party.

WRONG WAY: Make a noisy entrance, calling out to friends across the room, so that everyone will know that you have arrived.

RIGHT WAY: Come in quietly and move from group to group, if you don't want to be lost in the crowd.

Mt. Rainier is the second highest perpetually snow-capped peak in the United States.

DO YOU NEED SOME NEW "FINISHING TOUCHES" FOR YOUR ROOMS?

We suggest New Vases, they come in different shapes and materials. The Vase Book-Ends are interesting. Maybe there is a place for a Figurine! Pictures can add to the beauty of a room—used singly, in pairs or in groups.

We have them ready framed or we can make new frames for your old favorites, or the prints you have put away in some drawer, or that painting you made last winter.

It is often the "little things" that help to make a room charming and hospitable—a place where happiness abides.

HYSTERIA CAUSE IN OHIO, REPORT OF "SPY HUNTS"

President Blames Post-War Confusion, Fears For Most of "Hysteria"

WASHINGTON, June 17—(UP)—President Truman Thursday blamed postwar hysteria for much of the current public furor over spy hunts and alleged espionage cases.

The President talked at length with reporters on the general subject of current spy trials and investigations. He took the position that the country is going through a period of hysteria that follows every great crisis.

He said he felt confident that no part of his executive branch of the government was hysterical and he promised to clean out any official who became a victim of the spy hunt hysteria.

He said, under questioning, that he knew of no intention of the part of J. Edgar Hoover to resign as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. "Does Hoover have your confidence?" the President was asked. Done Good Job Hoover has done a good job, was the President's only reply. At his news conference last week, Truman said that he thought that much of the current hue-and-cry over spies was caused by headline hunters.

He was asked today whether he included Hoover in this category—a victim of headline hunters.

The President told the reporter to make his own evaluation. He said the reporter was as capable of doing this as he was.

A reporter cut in with the observation that what many people are interested in and worried about is the disclosure of confidential state papers. That referred to the FBI reports which were put in evidence in the espionage trial of Judith Coplon, former justice department employee who is accused of having relayed secret government documents to a Soviet agent.

The chief executive was asked what thought had been given to protection of such executive papers.

He said the matter had been thought over but it was not the policy of the executive branch to interfere with the judiciary.

Some of the lost Uranium was reported reclaimed from the dump used by the Atomic Energy Commission.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO MADAM CHIANG? INEZ ROBB LOOKS INTO THE PROBLEM

By INEZ ROBB

RIVERDALE, N. Y., June 17—(INS) — "Whatever became of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek?" I mused the other day, for want of something better to muse.

Nothing might have come of this musing had I not been foolish enough to muse out loud in front of an editor, a type man who believes in his staff living dangerously.

"Find out!" snapped this worthy.

So I am now prepared to report that while Communism sweeps over her native land, the woman who was once called the Joan D' Arc of China lives in voluntary exile on a cloistered country estate only ten miles from Times Square.

Mme. Chiang dropped out of the headlines and out of sight months ago after her dramatic flight to Washington, D. C., to ask aid for her husband's faltering regime.

In Retirement

The still beautiful Mei-Ling Soong Chiang, who failed so ignominiously in that mission, is now living in retirement in Riverdale, an extraordinarily beautiful suburb of large estates in an emerald setting high above the Hudson river.

Until a week or ten days ago, not even her nearest neighbors, who include Maestro Arturo Toscanini, knew that Mme. Chiang was once more living in their midst in the big stone, stucco and timbered tudor mansion leased five years ago by her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Kung.

When Mme. Chiang made the Riverdale estate her home when she was in America in 1944-45 for prolonged medical treatment, the house with its surrounding acre and a half of lushly planted grounds was vigilantly guarded by the United States government. Nothing is more indicative of the change in China's and in Mme. Chiang's situation now, four years later, than the fact that not a single guard of any nature patrols the house on an avenue named Independence.

Four years ago, Mme. Chiang was the wife of a war-time ally who was still head of a fairly cohesive state. Today, the Missino is here in a purely private capacity, and Uncle Sam does not provide guards.

As I walked up the steep, cobble driveway today, no one stopped or questioned me. As I hesitated, not certain where the main entrance was located, an obliging servant leaned from an apartment above the big garage and called and pointed:

"That way, Miss. You come big door."

A white-coated butler opened the door and ushered me into the hallway of the 20-room house. I explained who I was and asked if I might see Mme. Chiang.

Roses on Table

The house spread out around me, cool, serene and filled with flowers. A loose bunch of roses lay on the table next to an empty vase, as if someone had been interrupted while arranging flowers.

There was a murmur of voices in the great drawing room beyond.

Obviously, a conference was in process. A half-dozen Chinese gentlemen were alternately talking and listening to a slim woman almost hidden in a big arm chair.

One of the gentlemen, young and courteous, came into the hall, from which one could barely glimpse the great Hudson through the thick foliage of old, towering trees. He explained that Mme. Chiang was most sorry, but she has nothing to say at the moment.

"I hope Mme. Chiang is in better health than when she was here last," I said.

The young man assured me that Madame's health is excellent. And that is all I learned. I do not know if Mme. Chiang plans to remain here or to return to China. I found out nothing to substantiate or deny reports that a long-whispered rift between herself and the Generalissimo is permanent. I did not even find out if Madame still enjoys a game of gin rummy or if she has switched to canasta.

There is no doubt that Mme.

Employment Takes Drop During April

GOP CHAIRMAN GETS BACKING FOR 1950 DRIVE

By G. MILTON KELLY

AP Special Washington Service WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Ray C. Bliss, Ohio's Republican state chairman, appeared today to have won the backing of his state's G. O. P. congressmen for his 1950 election campaign plans.

Bliss, who took over the chairmanship recently, sketched to the lawmakers last night a plan designed to give his state organization's full-scale backing to Republican congressional nominees, yet allow them a free hand to choose their own campaign issues and type of campaign.

Congressmen who attended the dinner meeting with Bliss said it was harmonious and constructive.

Bliss had huddled first with Republican National Chairman Hugh D. Scott, Jr. and Senator Taft, (R-Ohio).

He said he intends to emphasize Taft's 1950 campaign for reelection as "The Race," but all so to wage the most intensive drive for house seats in the state's history. Democrats cut eight seats out of Ohio's house Republican column last fall, and Bliss said he wants to win them back and score other gains. Taft and some house Republicans do not see eye to eye on all issues.

Bliss said he considers such differences are none of his affair; that when campaign time rolls around the Republican congressional nominees must have the right to make their own campaign issues for their districts.

The statement meets the complaint of some congressmen that they have been called upon to expound too much "canned policy" from national headquarters in past campaigns.

They said it does not mean that candidates will work at cross purposes. Rather, they emphasized, it means they can have "realistic" campaigns, and still concentrate on efforts to elect as many Republicans to as many jobs as possible.

Bliss told reporters: "I think you'll find the most united and aggressive Republican campaign in Ohio's history in 1950."

He said his organization would stay out of factional fights in the party, and devote its energies to getting out the vote.

sage 28-0 of a house-approved bill giving subdivisions two more years to refund maturing bonds. The amounts of refunds was cut from 50 to 40 percent of bonds maturing in a year.

Bills passed by the senate and sent to the house would:

Give home owners and others better legal protection against contractors taking down payments for work they don't perform.

Cut Time Limit
Cut from five years to two the contract time limit for fixing school text book prices.

Extend cities' smoke control authority three miles beyond their borders and allow abatement contracts between subdivisions.

The house passed and sent to the senate bills to:

Designate the last Friday in April as Arbor day;

Permit the Ohio Archaeological and historical society to accept the Lancaster birthplace of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman for a state memorial.

Representatives postponed until Tuesday action on a bill to require equalization of real property tax duplicates throughout Ohio. The delay followed presentation of a long amendment by sponsor Fred L. Hoffman (R-Hamilton).

The measure would have the Ohio Board of Tax appeals withhold half of state subsidies to local governments and schools if counties failed to comply with orders to adjust duplicates.

Both houses adjourned until Monday night.

Miss Anna Cook, church organist, who was the accompanist for the numbers, also played the processional, "Grand March" and the recessional, "Postlude."

Speaks For Staff
Dr. Guy E. Byers, president of the Medical staff, which includes 35 physicians, and Supt. Zealley gave congratulatory greetings.

Mrs. L. B. Harris, vice president of the hospital board, presented the diplomas, after which the girls received their pins from Miss Hester M. Willis, directress of nurses.

The class recited the Nightingale pledge.

Miss O'Neil was president of the class and Miss Sheehan was its secretary-treasurer.

"Not on the Heights But Climbing" is the class motto. Red rose is its flower and green and white its colors.

Large arrangements of red roses and large baskets of white flowers were combined with greenery in the artistic decorations at the chancel entrance.

The reception, sponsored by the Hospital Woman's auxiliary was held in the social hall.

Red roses were used profusely with the beautiful flower arrangements which decked the hall.

Refreshments were served from a charmingly appointed buffet table on which red roses and white candles were used. A decorated cake garlanded with greenery and surrounded with white candles in crystal was featured.

The June committee of the Presbyterian Women's association was in charge.

Letters To The Editor

Good Advice!

Editor, The News:
For the Lov'a Mike, folks, don't mow your lawns during these torrid days. These lawns simply howl for rain but Mr. Jupiter Pluvius dropped asleep in some out-of-the-way gully.

Use sound logic and don't assist to kill your lawn by mowing. Never rake up the clippings. These are essential (by forming a mulch) to protect the roots when freezing weather sets in.

Yours with lots of lawn experience.

5 STATES

with the relief problem — Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Massachusetts. Three more are investigating the need—Michigan, Colorado and Idaho.

The work relief project, so familiar in the 'thirties, reappeared in Dayton, O., as early as December. Now it has spread to at least six bigger metropolitan areas, reports the American Municipal association.

They are: Detroit, 1,156 persons; Chicago, 155; Cincinnati county, more than 300; Los Angeles, 488; Cleveland, 141; Milwaukee county, 201. The totals are as of April or May; they may have risen.

New problems are looming. And some old ones are returning to plague states and cities which have been free from them during the seven flush years of war and reconversion. For instance:

1. Relief costs per relief family have soared. Ohio says it costs 2½ times as much to keep a family going as it did in 1942.

Reasons: Food costs more, hospitals cost more. Everything costs more.

2. Rents must be paid. Nowadays, landlords evict non-paying tenants. In the depression, many people who couldn't pay stayed on anyway because the landlord couldn't find other tenants. Now the state or city must either pay the rent or re-house homeless families.

3. Longer relief rolls are embarrassing city treasuries. Already squeezed between frozen tax revenues and higher costs for every city service, cities find the new relief burden raises "serious financial problems," says the Municipal association. In 16 states cities shoulder their whole relief load; in the rest, state and city share.

4. Some western states report migrants on the march again. Nothing like the "Grapes of Wrath" era but incoming transients are causing concern in Colorado and Wyoming, for instance, and even in Oklahoma whence came the "Okies" of dustbowl and depression days.

5. Aid to dependent children is rising faster than other relief. Missouri thinks it is because women who worked to support children are losing jobs. Louisiana thinks wartime marriages are breaking up.

Most states reported bigger relief appropriations for this year; or for the new fiscal year starting July 1, than in 1948.

Summarized reports from the states included:

Ohio—The relief case load in averaging 25,000 a month and moving up. The depression peak was 294,000; reached in 1935. A four-month weekly average of unemployment claims of 79,982, as against 36,000 in the same period last year.

GUILFORD AMONG BEST 'TAKE' LAKES

Last Week's Reports Show Columbia County Spot Is Excellent

By JIM DAILY
COLUMBUS, June 17—(UP)—Since five percent of good fishing is considered to be ability to pick the "right fishin' hole"—the other 95 percent is thought by some to be just plain luck—the word was out today about Leesville lake.

The bluegills were running at Leesville, just south of New Philadelphia, and every man-jack with a line in the water the past week caught the stubby fish at the rate of five-an-hour.

Fishermen at Leesville, according to Creel Census Taker Charles Gessaman, took a fish in bunches of 150 to 200, with the most being caught by fly rod anglers.

And what is even better news, the state fish management section says the prospects are better for the weekend as the present cloudy weather holds up. The weathermen promise that

Sekelys, MAT Win Class B Contests

Sekelys won 15-2 over Keunzils and the MAT defeated the Lions 15-13 in a red-hot game in Class B at Centennial park Thursday evening.

The MAT-Lions affair went the limit, the score being knotted 13-13 in the last frame.

Forecast tomorrow is, "cloudy with moderate temperature, probably followed by showers in the west portions of the state by nightfall."

Gessaman said 97 percent of the fish caught at Leesville were bluegills, with a few bass and crappies mixed in.

Other good spots recommended in the fish management section's reports were Lake Alma, Seneca, Guilford and Portage North.

Alma's fishermen averaged a little over one fish per hour, 60 percent of which were blue gills and eight percent bass. At Seneca the average was about the same but crappies predominated there at 54 percent, the rest being 34 percent blue gills and miscellaneous.

Guilford also averaged a little over one fish per hour, although a good mess of perch were taken. The census showed 22 percent perch, 18 percent crappies and 45 percent blue gills.

The count at Portage was one an hour, 75 percent bluegills and 11 percent perch.

Of the 16 spots surveyed, fishing was considered poor at O'Shaughnessy dam, Atwood lake, St. Marys, Shade River, Tappan lake, Griggs Ram, Vesuvius lake and Vesuvius. Fair fishing was to be had at Buckeye lake, Griggs Dam, Jackson, Madison and Twin lakes.

VFW Loses To CIO; Bliss Wins As China Loses And National Race Is Tightened

The title race in the National softball league becomes more and more complicated each evening, the leaders doing a sound job Thursday of making it more interesting.

The second-place VFW took an upset on the chin last night, 6-5 to the CIO, a team that has been at its heels in third for weeks. Bliss, to make things merrier, won out 12-0 over the Igloo and moved into a three-way tie for second with the CIO and VFW.

While this confusion was gaining, the leading Salem China slipped a bit to lose 13-1 to the lowly-placed Electric Furnace and drop to within a half-game of the threatening trio in second. The China has now lost two and won six. The second three are tied with five wins and two losses.

In the American league the top teams weren't involved in play yesterday. But the Salem Diner, not far from the top, won easily 17-9 over the Jaycees. In the other American league fray Swetye won 18-3 over the Saxons. Both teams are well in the cellar.

The contest of the night was between the three-letter teams, the VFW and the CIO. The Veterans put up a stiff battle to hold their spot but the CIO wasn't to be denied. Mills was top man for the VFW with three hits, a perfect slate for the night. Peppel and Byers led the CIO with two for three safeties.

The Furnace sat the China down with only two hits, while playing flawless ball in the field.

TALLULAH TELLS LADIES OF PRESS IN CAPITAL TALK

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — (UP) — The ladies of the press—I love 'em, mostly.

They'll thank you for a coke and then turn around and scoop you. Sometimes they'll outrun you on a running story. They'll thumb-tack your ears and rib you when you pull a boner.

I'll take my chances against the gals one or three at a time, but deliver me when the odds are 250 to one. That happened when I was a guest of the women's National Press club. Another guest was Tallulah Bankhead, the professional actress and amateur politician. Come to think of it, that made it 251 to one, since the deep-voiced mistress of the boards had done a few little pieces for the public prints herself.

Anyhow, the only notes I got out of the thing were taken while Miss B. was making a 10-minute speech. My jottings run like this: "Said she was nervous. Chain smoked while talking, with leading man acting like jack-in-box jumping up to light her cigarettes. She bawled him out. Confessed to weighing 135 pounds when 11 years old. (Hasn't gained much since—Ed.)

"Pulled a few good gags; a lot not so good. Swore a couple of times. Something's happened to her southern accent. Affects Broadway stage talk. Like 'lofff' etc. Said she talked back, in a friendly sort of way, to Dr. Kinsey who wrote a 'report'."

"Said some kids think all they have to do to get a midnight tan under the great white way, which is Broadway, is go to drama school. You've got to go out and do it—meaning acting."

Gives idea I don't take very good notes, but maybe you get the idea of FAITHFUL IN HIS FASHION—This dead dog has a really faithful buddy. The little fellow sat beside his fallen friend when the animal was struck by a car on a Chicago street and remained there until the body was removed eight hours later.

what she said in her speech.

After that, Tallulah fired another cigarette and took off her specks. She said she was ready for a question and answer period.

I cleared my throat a little and made ready to shoot a good one at her. But as I said, a man doesn't have a chance.

Before a fellow could spell "Bankhead" backwards one of the lovelies asked the lady from Alabama what kind of shampoo she uses. There was a chorus of titters, mostly soprano. Everybody in the room knew that Miss B. is suing a well-known soap outfit, alleging that using her front name in a singing radio jingle was causing her embarrassment.

Tallulah got around that rather nicely by saying she washes her hair with another well-known product, which I shall not mention.

Again, I tried to fire a question. Again I got side-swiped by a lady of the fourth estate who bounced to her feet to ask Tallulah what she thought of Communism. It turned out Tallulah didn't think much of it. Would she run for public office and clear up all this awful mess we have in the world, some other feminine voice asked? She would not. Who would write the speeches? Besides, more fun on the outside, looking in.

The meeting adjourned. Could mere male get close enough to shake the great lady by the hand? Was the man crazy enough to fight odds of 250 to one? No ma'am.

GRANGES GUILFORD

The 75th anniversary of the founding of Guilford Grange was observed Saturday evening with a special program heard by 250 members and friends.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. George Van Wingerden, of the Christian church, Girard. The program also included several selections by the Mile Branch men's quartet.

An interesting feature was a "History of Guilford Grange," showing the growth of the grange from its beginning to the present, prepared and read by Mrs. H. L. Gray. Other numbers were "Grange Prophecy," Mrs. William Steele; and instrumental music, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howenstine.

Rotary To Use $750,000 To Promote Understanding

NEW YORK, June 17 — (AP)—Rotary international, whose 40th and biggest convention drew to a close Thursday, has voted to spend $750,000 during the next three years for better understanding among the world's peoples. The fund represents a $300,000

The money will be used to provide fellowships to outstanding students all over the world, to send speakers to various nations to explain the workings of the United Nations, and to provide relief for Rotarian families in war-devastated areas.

Very, very funny!

(or is it?)

The way ordinary refrigerators are built may be funny to the cartoonist who raids the refrigerator at night. But it's not so funny to his wife—or to any woman—who spends so much of her day playing "put-and-take" or "hide-and-seek" with foods in her refrigerator. Not so with the millions of women who own Crosleys!

Only CROSLEY gives you the SHELVDOR*

Every Crosley refrigerator has the Shelvador... the wonderful Shelvador, designed by a woman in the first place—the amazing Shelvador that doubles your "front-row" refrigerator space... triples your bottle storage capacity... stores constantly-needed foods within fingertip reach... keeps little things from "getting lost"!

Why buy any old-fashioned refrigerator? Instead, get a new 1949 Shelvador—designed for practical use—planned for complete refrigeration service—built for long, trouble-free, economical operation—styled for "proud-kitchen" beauty—priced for every budget.

Come in and see the 8 handsome 1949 Crosley models—all with the Shelvador. You'll see why it's fun (instead of "funny") to own a Crosley!
